The following pages of this chapter will summarize these manuscripts and comment briefly on the explanations of current practices which are reported. INFLUENCE or ran KINDERGARTEN TRAINING Sonoon The activities undertaken in the kindergartens of the city seem to be fairly uniform throughout the schools. This fact is undoubtedly explained by the influence of the Cleveland Kindergarten Training School. This school trains practically all the kindergartners in Cleveland. It is maintained and governed by a board of public-spirited women and is to all intents and purposes a public institution. It is, however, in a somewhat anomalous relation to the schools in that it is regarded on all sides as a permanent and controlling factor in the educational system, but it is not answerable to the School Board or the Superinten dent. Furthermore, the City Normal School has no bond of connection with this kindergarten school, thereby losing advantages which would be mutual if there were an interchange of training for kindergartners and primary teachers. The problem of the relation of the kindergarten school to the city system is all the more important because there is no kindergarten supervisor in the city. Furthermore, the replies made by the kindergartners show that supervision by the principals in the buildings is, in general, very slight. The kindergarten is too much a thing apart, unconnected with the rest of the system except in a loose and often...
