Simpson, Methodist Minister and Missionary: Early Life, and Life in the Home Work; Mission Life It is five years this day since William Overend Simpson entered into rest. More than many, he dwelt in the presence of all his brethren. He was eminently a travelling preacher; and during the years of his ministry in the Home Work, he gave himself without stint or grudging to the Connexion which he loved so well. In town Circuits and in country Circuits, he went in and out amongst ministers and members. And it never occurred to him to seem other than he was; but with open face and great plainness of speech he lived and moved amidst the people called Methodists. And as he lived, so he died in the presence of all his brethren. Death found William Overend Simpson where he finds not one in ten thousand - in a District Meeting. On the Laymen s day, and at an hour when every one was present, - it was just then that he who lived...
